

Do you have breast or cervical cancer? Worried about paying for treatment?

You may qualify for a special Medi-Cal program for people with breast cancer, cervical cancer, or both. If you're eligible, the program will cover your treatment. The program is called the Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Program, or "BCCTP."

People of all ages, immigration statuses, and gender identities may qualify for the BCCTP. You may qualify even if you could not get Medi-Cal in the past or your Medi-Cal has ended. You may also qualify if you have other health insurance.

You must have a pre-cervical, cervical, or breast cancer diagnosis and need treatment or follow-up care. You must also live in California and meet certain income requirements.

► There are 2 ways to apply to the Breast and Cervical Cancer Treatment Program (BCCTP).

- 1. Talk to your doctor. Ask if they are part of the Every Woman Counts or Family PACT programs. If they are, they can apply for you. Many doctors across California are part of these programs.

If you want help to find a doctor who participates, you can:

Contact Every Woman Counts to find a breast or cervical cancer doctor near you.

📞 Call: (800) 511-2300

🌐 Go to: www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/cancer/EWC/Pages/ewc-clinic-locator.aspx

Contact Family PACT to find a cervical cancer doctor near you.

📞 Call: (916) 650-0414

- 2. Talk to a County Eligibility Worker. Tell them you have breast or cervical cancer and want to sign up for the BCCTP.

The County Eligibility Worker will send your information to a BCCTP Eligibility Specialist. The BCCTP Eligibility Specialist will let you know by mail if you were approved or not for the BCCTP.

The County Eligibility Worker will also check to see if you are eligible for Medi-Cal. They will let you know by mail if you were approved or not for Medi-Cal.

🌐 Learn more at www.dhcs.ca.gov/services/medi-cal/Pages/BCCTP.aspx